NORTH CAROLINA IMPACT STORY

Book Harvest provides access to ongoing literacy resources and support for children and families across North Carolina, starting at birth through the first decade of kids' lives. Book Harvest and First Book have partnered together over the years to provide valuable resources through various programs. Most recently when the pandemic hit, First Book was able to help support distributions at meal site pick-ups, contactless grab-n-go office hours, and delivery to child care centers and community partners. Over 36,000 books were distributed in just four months to help provide the region's children with resources to continue learning and stay engaged away from school.
